GENERAL POLITICAL NOTES

The Boston Commonwealth truly says that a political party was never formed on the basis of personal dislikes and disappointments

On the 22d of April the Republicans carried the municipal election at St Paul a city heretofore largely Democratic, by over 1 000 majority

The Chicago Post says: While several of our exchanges have alluded to the New Hampshire election as the Straw which tells how the wind blows none of them have, as yet, made a rather neat point in reference to the first Straw which is to break the Democratic camel's back

The Columbia (S C) Phœnix says that the New York World "does only harm in misleading public opinion in the North when it allows a South Carolina correspondent to say that the people of the South are perfectly willing to vote for Chase, or Sumner, or anybody else in opposition to Grant

The New Orleans Times says It is pleasant to hear from old friends occasionally if only in an incidental way we are therefore gratified to hear from good old Ben Wade. Somebody interviewed him the other day upon the political situation He answered briefly pertinently and conclusively "H—ll is to pay all round"

The Buffalo Commercial thinks it strange to see how the Democratic journals try to make believe that there is any such thing as the Democratic party alive Whereupon the New York Commercial Advertiser says We think our Buffalo namesake must mistake for an attempt of the above description what is only intended as a demonstration of respect for the corpse.

The Buffalo Express referring to the downfall of the Erie Ring, says It is generally conceded that there were not less than thirty thousand illegal votes cast in New York city at the election and it is equally well known that Tammany Hall and the Erie railway were instrumental in perpetrating the fraud These powers are now dethroned, and the vote of New York is as sure for Grant at the next election as that of Massachusetts

All the Democratic papers have recently been praising General Longstreet Cause they were counting him against Grant But Longstreet in a letter to Senator Kellogg, dated March 23d says The personal claims of the President are very great All things considered I am constrained to say that I think the people owe it to themselves and to the President to return him to the office that he has filled so well and with such entire good faith Now let the entire Democracy fall to abusing Longstreet again

In General Jackson's day one man Samuel Swartwout stole $1 000 000 in the New York Custom House Then the Government only raised a few millions of dollars per annum no vast war debt having to be paid Under Van Buren's administration there were ninety eight receivers of public moneys, and ninety six out of the ninety eight were defaulters Under Buchanan, that magnificent thief John B Floyd, of whom Tweed alone can be his parallel, stole all the money that was in the treasury, and everything else he could lay his hands on And yet were there thieving Democrats ever sent to the Penitentiary

The New York Times says that Mr Greeley as a free trader coupled with Captain Grosvenor will be an interesting sight for the Pennsylvania monopolists (as they are called) who have been among the most earnest supporters of Mr Greeley and the Tribune in past times The manufacturers thought they were sure of Mr Greeley But he has turned upon them He is now crying as loudly as anybody for Grosvenor's revenue reform which means free trade The Post may well call it a sudden conversion The Presidential maggot will make a man renounce his own father and mother to say nothing of the wallet of opinions which he has been carrying on his back all his life

An Indiana editor referring to the nomination of David Davis as the Labor Reform candidate for President quotes as follows from the first book of Samuel David therefore departed thence and escaped to the cave Adullam and when his brethren and all his father's house heard it they went down thither to him And every one that was in distress and every one that was in debt and every one that was discontented gathered themselves under him and he became captain over them and there were with him about four hundred men"

Greeley's desertion of his position as a life-long Protectionist and the facility with which he swallowed Grosvenor's Missouri Free Trade platform is commented on by his old Protectionist friends in Pennsylvania in terms in which astonishment, indignation and contempt are mingled in nearly equal proportions None of Greeley's follies has done so much to shake the confidence of his most steadfast friends not only in his good sense but in his honesty as this apostasy to the faith for which he had battled, as its high priest for forty years

The New York Tribune has this lick at San Francisco A curious example of Chinese imitativeness is reported from Yucho a town about one hundred miles west of Pekin It seems that Rev Isaac Pierson a Christian missionary preaching to the people seeing signs of disorder quietly withdrew from the place where he was speaking He was followed by a rabble of fellows who stoned him knocked him down and otherwise shamefully handled him He reached home with soiled and torn clothing and blood running freely from wounds on his head and face The good man evidently could not have been treated much worse if he had been a Chinaman timidly shrinking through the streets of the Christian city of San Francisco

T[illegible]SDAY MORNING APRIL [illegible]

Mr Burnett's Speech

[illegible] and [illegible] Mr [illegible] His remarks w[illegible] ... [illegible] which he [illegible] forth [illegible] We call [illegible] that he will some time [illegible] his position [illegible] revise some of his opinions.

Mr Burnett opened by [illegible] nce that a great struggle was [illegible] between capital and labor. They were eternal opposites [illegible] irreconcilable and must always be at war. This was a necessary result from the nature of things. All aggregations of capital —we quote his exact words— were at war with the interests of [illegible]. The necessary deduction there[illegible] the people should lay [illegible] to se[illegible] aggregations of capital and distribute them and thus put their enemy down. Whenever capital begins to aggregate, a due regard for the preservation of popular rights and liberties requires the dividends of these accumulations be [illegible] among the people. Such things have some times been done and acts of plunder of such sort have been the result of demagogical harangues on the alleged deadly war between capital and labor.

But are they antagonistic? On the contrary are not labor and capital mutually beneficial and helpful? For the first time in the history of Oregon capital in large accumulations is operating in the State. Where is the 'antagonism'? It affords labor steady employment at fair wages. It stimulates every industry and quickens every branch of business. Laboring men are employed by it who otherwise would go hungry. The [illegible] increased activity everywhere resulting from its presence. And will any one with these facts before him say that aggregations of capital are antagonistic to labor and oppressive to the people? Great enterprises cannot be carried on without great capital. If the country could get rid of the [illegible] evil of accumulated capital of which Mr Burnett is so afraid, its civilization would shortly be about on a footing with that of the Indians on the Reservation in Mr. Burnett's county.

Another of the gen[illegible] deliverances was on the tariff. A tariff in his opinion was an invention designed to oppress the South and West and benefit New England. He drew a frightful picture of the supposed distress of the country resulting from the policy of protection. He wanted the poor man protected, not the rich. When he studies the subject a little further he will learn that a protective tariff is especially advantageous to the interests of our laboring classes. And though he dwells at such length on its alleged exactions and seems to be firmly of opinion that it is ruinous to the country, is he not aware that the country has never known such a period of uninterrupted prosperity as during the last ten years under a protective tariff? When did the laboring classes ever fare so well? During what former period did they ever have so large a share of the comforts and even luxuries of life? And when did they ever before have so much money in savings banks? Mr Burnett, most probably, cannot tell. Nor can he give any reason or fact to support his allegation that under a protective tariff the South and West are not on an equal footing with New England. The law against which he declaims covers the whole country. It protects manufactures in Illinois or Louisiana to the same extent as in Maine or Rhode Island. It affords the same advantages to General Miller's woolen mill at Salem as to any similar establishment in Massachusetts.

On banking Mr Burnett was equally infelicitous. He thought paper money an abomination and National Banks engines of oppression. He declared that there was no reason why the country could not get along without paper money as it did before the war. It will be new to many to learn that there was no paper money before the war. The general impression is that such money was very plenty even then. The difference between it and our National Bank notes is, that the former was issued under State banking laws, often on uncertain security and with constant liability to 'break,' while the latter are founded upon the best security in the world, and loss is impossible.

These are some of the subjects which Mr Burnett touched upon and which he should reconsider. He would make his address much better and more logical thereby.

Signs and Probability

The New York Herald, commenting on the Connecticut election, says the issue was "the strength of the anti Grant coalition against the Administration. The conditions of the fight were, upon the whole, favorable to the Democrats, for they were assisted by the Temperance and Labor Reform bushwhackers." It was the opinion of ex Governor English, a few days ago that if the Republicans under the present state of things, carried Connecticut, the Cincinnati Convention would not amount to much. "If," said the Herald, "the Democratic party is unequal to the task of coping with General Grant for the success [illegible] it must, as General Blair says, cast about for reinforcements. But if these Liberal Republicans with all their clamor for civil service and revenue reform are when brought to the test outside of Missouri [illegible] to be only a corporal's guard of howling [illegible], what is the use to the great Democratic party of playing second fiddle to the Cincinnati Convention?" We begin to think with Mr English that this affair will not amount to much, and that Mr Belmont, Hamilton, Mr Brown and his passive coalition policy will find it expedient to call [illegible] Convention as usual for the nomination of a Democratic Presidential ticket and that it will occupy substantially the platform of the Administration. And the result will probably be like that of 1852—that campaign in which the old Whig party fought its last battle.

The following resolution was submitted to the Committee on Platform at the Dalles Convention, but was stricken out when the platform was reported to that body:

Resolved That we are in favor of granting reasonable aid for the construction of railroads in this State.

The Democracy, by striking this out declared that they want to give no more encouragement to railroads in this State. This will do for notice to Mr Slater that he is not expected to make any more efforts in behalf of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake bill.

A cable dispatch says that Internationalism has been declared by a German [illegible] to be high treason to the German Empire.

Pretended Surprise

The New York World expresses surprise at the invitation of the Committee of the Cincinnati Convention calling upon voters without distinction of party to unite with them. It says that while the Democrats are ready to co operate with the Reformers yet it is absurd to think they [illegible] their own organization [illegible] with [illegible] which [illegible] Republican [illegible]. While we [illegible] the Cincinnati Convention will [illegible] subsequent to May 1st. If the Cincinnati Convention should present [illegible] strong Republican [illegible] making [illegible] possible that we might [illegible] but we must also contemplate the possibility of its being a fizzle. The Democratic party resolutely refuses to [illegible] its fortunes and prosperity to this doubtful experiment. We shall reserve our organization, maintain our party discipline. If we take up a Cincinnati candidate we shall do it as a strong, not as a straggling band of disorganized voters.

Howsoever it may be with the Democratic party of the Eastern States the Democracy of this [illegible] cannot be carried over in a solid body to vote for a Cincinnati candidate, and it may seriously be questioned whether the leaders in any State who attempt to effect a change of front like this will not lose two straight Democrats for every discontented and straggling Republican they gain.

Some time since, says the Sacramento Bee, there was a German meeting at San Francisco at which certain resolutions were proposed and discussed but without action the meeting adjourned to the 3d inst. On this last occasion the meeting was not so well attended as before. It was stated that as four of the wards had not yet sent delegates to the organization it would be advisable not to adopt the resolutions presented at the last meeting until the other wards were represented, and a committee of five was appointed to confer with the German citizens of unrepresented wards and request them to organize clubs and send delegates. A motion to have the meeting declare itself in favor of the reform party with Sumner, Schurz and Trumbull as leaders, met with much opposition and was ultimately laid upon the table, whereupon the meeting adjourned.

Vic Trevitt was defeated for renomination for the Legislature in Wasco county because he voted for the Canal and Locks bill and was supposed to be for Nesmith. Savage ditto. Vic has done a great deal of rather dirty work for his party in his day, and this defeat is a fitting reward. Savage ditto. Humason was ruled out because he could not pronounce the Grover shibboleth. Hendershott of Union is in the same boat. Grover is marching on over his enemies. But he will still command their services for a lift in the election.

Mr Burnett is out in furious opposition to the whole policy of land grants. Mr Slater is at Washington working for a grant of several million acres with all his might. Eastern Oregon will understand.

There is a portentous rumor that Andrew Johnson will be present at the Cincinnati Convention with the Constitution in a fine state of preservation, and an assortment of flags.

OREGON

The spring races have begun in Jackson county.

The machinery for the new steam flouring mill at Hillsboro is being put in place.

All the houses in Hillsboro are occupied and the demand for tenement houses is good.

Col Cornelius and Mr Bingham have gone into the real estate business in Washington county.

Two men named Watson and Maynatt, were arrested last week on a charge of having burned the Cow Creek school house in Douglas county, but were discharged on the preliminary examination.

The Plaindealer at Roseburg says: By private letter we are glad to learn that there will be a considerable emigration from Pennsylvania to the Umpqua valley this summer. All we need is population, and we will welcome all that come.

A Hillsboro correspondent says the late concert and festival given by the Good Templars of that place, was a grand success. Addresses were made by J Stitzel Esq of Portland, Hon W D Hare, of Hillsboro and Rev Mr Richardson of Monmouth. The proceeds were fifty dollars and the entertainment will probably be repeated next week.

The Republican County Convention of Wasco assembled at the Dalles on last Saturday. The following ticket was placed in the field: T F Moody State Senator; G W Waldron and John Darragh Representatives; Thos Gordon, County Judge; John T Storrs Sheriff; Captain L C [illegible]ffin, County Clerk; George Ruch, Treasurer; E Wood and —— Lester (of Ochoco) Commissioners; W P Watson, Assessor; Thomas Condon, School Superintendent.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The O[illegible]er with 90 passengers and a large freight sailed from Victoria for Skeena on the 5th of April.

The law of primogeniture is at an end in British Columbia, the bill to divide estates among the nearest of kin having passed the Provincial Legislature.

Mr A[illegible] Hall, w[illegible] an Indian and a French Canadian crossed Shepherd Mountain twenty days ago when the snow was thirty feet deep, covered with a hard crust on the top of which they walked.

Tenders for the construction of a Graving Dock at Esquimalt were invited a few months ago by the Provincial Government. Only one tender was sent in—that of T A Bulkley Esq, C E, who represents English capitalists.

The Elective Franchise in the Dominion Government has been changed so as to include every [illegible] resident British subject who shall take the trouble to have his name placed on the voter's list, and it has also been changed so as especially and effectually to exclude Chinese and Indians.

At Comox the weather had been very mild and the farmers were busy getting their ground ready for seeding. Dawson's sloop is engaged in taking dogfish. At Nanaimo the anniversary tea meeting of the Good Templars was held in the Institute Hall on Saturday evening last. About 100 sat down to tea, after which addresses, recitations, &c, were given and a pleasant evening passed.

Omaha and Council Bluffs are waging a terrible feud and the latter shows its contempt for the former by calling it Traintown, while Omaha retorts with the ignominious epithet of Lousyville. Which has the better of the matter depends entirely on which kind of vermin attributed by each to the other is to be considered the more objectionable.

There is a terrible story told of a young lady in Pennsylvania who was bitten by an infuriated dog. A few weeks after she was married, and on the very day of her wedding, was seized with the horrible symptoms of hydrophobia and died in convulsions in her husband's arms.

The Ohio Democracy are again clamoring for Groesbeck for the Presidential nomination.

T[illegible] THE O[illegible]

[illegible] Not being [illegible] around to the Court House [illegible] the [illegible] The [illegible] Court House [illegible] seating [illegible] Ben Holladay [illegible] Holladay [illegible] until [illegible] This last act of the [illegible] was warmly applauded. The next speaker was Lawyer Thayer of Portland. He [illegible] succeeded in making himself understood and stated distinctly the following propositions:

First—That our fathers established a government the fundamental [illegible] of which was that all men were created equal and that the Republicans had perverted that principle by allowing negroes to vote.

The second proposition was the perversion of the Government by preventing the Southern States from seceding and carrying themselves out of the Union. He was certain he had contributed nothing to the war. He had smelled the battle afar off. But his main effort was directed against Ben Holladay, and the appalling calamity of railroads. He longed for the good old times of the Cayuse pony.

Hon John Burnett having arrived was next introduced. He made three points:—1st – I am nominated and was the choice of the Convention. 2d—Mrs Dunway was opposed to his election, was sorry to have her displeasure as otherwise he would have been disposed to vote a split ticket. 3d—Ben Holladay was about to ruin us. He had corrupted the two last Legislatures (both Democratic). The fair inference and legitimate conclusion from his premises, was that the people must again elect a Democratic Legislature and allow Holladay again to corrupt them.

Hon R S Strahan, Senator elected by the late Legislature, was next introduced. He was on the stool of repentance. He had voted for the subsidy for the West Side road, doubted its constitutionality, and if it was up again would not vote for it. Hoped the Democrats of Benton would be as lenient and merciful to their offending Senator as possible. That he had compromised his conscience to get them a railroad and would do so no more.

Lawyer Daily of Polk county next spoke and said it was better the people had land than railroads. Like all the other speakers he had Holladay and Dunway on the brain. The search for hats and walking away of the hearers closed the ratification.

IMPLIED [illegible] CONSENT TO THE [illegible] FORM AND [illegible]

I listened carefully to the five speakers and not one of them examined or attempted to discuss either the platform or ticket of the Republican party. So that as far as implied endorsement was concerned nothing could have been more fully endorsed. They had no fault to find with it.

As to the abuse of Mr Holladay and Mrs Dunway, I don't know that this is any of our funeral and if Holladay has corrupted Democratic Legislatures and has succeeded in getting undue advantages of the people by means of his wealth I think these orators clumsy and tedious as they were, succeeded in showing the necessity of a change. And now let the people take warning and instead of sending back these weak and sordid tools of Holladay to repeat the corruptions of the last two sessions send intelligent honest and independent Legislators, that while they encourage Holladay or any other man in building railroads, they will also guard the sacred rights of the people. Let the past be a warning not to send any more Democrats of easy virtue to the Legislature to be 'bought up.'

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL [illegible], 1872

[illegible]

SCHOOL MEETING —An adjourned [illegible] of the legal voters of School District No [illegible] was held [illegible] the Central School House. The object of the meeting was to hear the report of the Auditing Committee—Messrs [illegible] Shattuck, Lloyd Brooke and Josiah Failing—to whom had been referred the reports of the Directors and Clerk. The Board of Directors, J S [illegible] ner and J G Glenn, presided.

The meeting was called to order by [illegible] Gill

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read by the Clerk, R J Ladd, and approved.

C A Dolph moved that the meeting adjourn to next Monday evening to meet at the Court House as there was but a slim attendance.

Mr. Hardenburg moved to amend the motion by inserting the Central School House instead of the Court House.

Several gentlemen opposed the motion to adjourn at all, alleging as a reason that as the Auditing Committee was present and doubtless ready to report that there were present as many as could probably be collected at any other time.

Mr. O'Meara was opposed to adjourning the meeting to the Court House, as there were political times, and that place was likely to be used on any evening. He was in favor of adjourning to meet at the school house on next Monday evening, and that to secure as large an attendance as possible, he suggested that the Clerk be authorized to publish notices to that effect in the daily press.

After considerable discussion the motion to adjourn for one week to meet in the school house was put and carried.

TO BE CHANGED —A portion of the line of the Oregon and California Railroad between the car shops and the east side depot is to be changed. The road will diverge from the old route at a point on Tibbets claim just south of the Good Templars' Hall. It will continue on past the Brooklyn Mill, and leave Jas Stephens' [illegible] to the left, instead of passing between the house and the river as at present. The new line will intersect the old track near the foot of [illegible] street. Two objects are secured by this change. The route is more direct, does not conform to the course of the river and by the change all the low lands that are inundated during high stages of water and prove serious obstacles to trains are [illegible]. Grading has already been commenced, and it is the intention to have the road in running [illegible] by the 1st of June.

GOT TO WORK —Mr. Withycombe, who came last fall from England and purchased the well [illegible] Rice farm, of 640 acres in Washington [illegible], has already started his dairy on the English [illegible], and will have a winter as well as [illegible] dairy. He has laid on our table a sample of rich yellow butter, not excelled by the best [illegible] in our market, and also some Devonshire [illegible] prepared especially for use on fruit which he proposes to introduce in proper season. Mr W. also proposes to lessen the complaint of our citizens, as much as in his power by stall feeding beef cattle for the markets in winter. We are glad to see these old country people who know how, and are not afraid to work settle among us and set examples for those about them. Messrs F. A. Bean & Co, 121 First street, will be agents for his butter and other produce.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE —Through a private source we have received information of the death at Point Arenas, Cal, of Mr Francis G DeWitt, [illegible] of this city. Mr DeWitt was one of the early pioneers of Portland, having come to this [illegible] in 1845. He was for some years engaged in mercantile business here, and was well known to most old residents of the country. At the time of his death, he, with others, was engaged in hauling a vessel up on the beach, at Point Arenas when some of the machinery having become disengaged, in an attempt to adjust it his head was [illegible] by a revolving beam and crushed—killing him instantly. He was buried by the Masonic [illegible]ty, of which order he was a member.

THEATER —Owing to the political speaking at the Court House, there was a spare attendance at the theater last evening. The same programme of Saturday night was repeated—Jack Long and Taming the Shrew. The bill was rendered in a [illegible] very creditable to the actors, and satisfactory to the audience. Manager Waldron and his excellent troupe are endeavoring to give the [illegible] goers legitimate amusement and the public should not fail to give them their hearty patronage and support.

JAPANESE TROUPE —We learn that John Marshall, the old circus veteran, has written to this city to effect, if possible, a lease of the theater here. If the negotiation is successful it is his intention to bring up the great Tycoon Japanese Troupe, now performing at the Metropolitan Theater, San Francisco. This troupe is reported to be wonderful in feats of jugglery and acrobatic [illegible]mances, and would no doubt attract largely for a short time should they come to Portland.

THIEVES AGAIN —The sleeping apartment of two gentlemen who were rooming on Fifth near Washington street, was entered on Saturday evening by burglars. The two occupants of the room were fast asleep at the time and so noiselessly did the thieves enter and depart that they were not awakened. One of the sleepers lost a pair of trowsers, in the pocket of which was a two dollar and a half piece. Nothing else was [illegible].

SERENADED —Immediately on the arrival of the [illegible] boat last evening, Judge Joseph G Wilson [illegible] candidate for Congressman was waited upon by a delegation of his friends at the wharf. Headed by the East Portland Brass Band he was escorted to the St. Charles Hotel, where three rousing hearty cheers were given him, and the crowd dispersed.

SIDE TRACK —The side track which is to be used by construction trains to fill up the upper portion of Couch's Lake and around Halsey's new hotel, has been laid to the foot of G street. Trains are constantly bringing down earth which is being used to raise the temporarily laid track to a proper altitude.

CLEARING —A large gang of workmen are engaged in clearing the timber and other obstacles along the line of the Oregon Central Railroad for a considerable distance beyond Cornelius. Grading has not yet commenced but will prosecuted as soon as the weather will permit.

RAILROAD IRON —The barkentine Amelia was being discharged of iron yesterday and as it is placed on the cars as it comes out the prospect are that it will go forward with dispatch. A large quantity of iron remains on the east side dock awaiting shipment to the front.

LECTURE —S C Simpson [illegible] will lecture this evening a Philharmonic Hall. His subject will be "Geneva Conference." Arrangements have been effected so that music will be furnished before and at the close of the lecture.

APPRECIATING —The steady advance in value of real estate is shown in the sale of half a block on Yamhill street west of Eleventh street, for $10,000—which a few years ago would have brought little more than half that sum.

NEAR DROWNING —A small boy while playing near the foot of Market street last evening fell from the wharf into the river. But for two men who heard his cries and rescued him he would have been drowned.

DRAGGING —Several persons were dragging the bottom of the river at the point where it is supposed the body of the missing man [illegible] the wharf. All efforts to recover the body were fruitless.

FRAME RAISED —The frame to the new saw mill below the west side depot where the machinery of the railroad sawmill is soon to be removed is being raised. All the piles have been driven.

TOWED UP —The steamer [illegible] came up the river yesterday with a large raft of logs from some point below.

TO SAIL —The steamer [illegible] will sail for Victoria and Sound ports this evening.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT —This Court will meet this morning at 10 o'clock.

DUE —Steamship Ajax will be due here from San Francisco this evening.

THE SPEAKING LAST NIGHT

About the largest audience we have ever seen in Portland assembled at the court house last night to hear the rival candidates for Congress. As Mr [illegible]'s harangue is reviewed at length elsewhere it is unnecessary for us to say anything about it here but we will remark that the entire audience paid profound attention to both speakers throughout their entire address each party [illegible] their respective candidate as they deemed [illegible] but against his opponent. When Mr Burnett had concluded and Judge Wilson [illegible] the [illegible] was treated [illegible] Judge [illegible] saying that he was not old enough to talk to [illegible] that had been discussed by his opponent nor did he think it at all necessary that he should take most of those issues were dead and buried years ago. He would rather discuss the present living issues which concerned the interests of us who are dwelling in these days [illegible] and advancement in the civilization and elevation of the world. Successfully attained the great objects of the Republican party were the [illegible] more perfect Union the securing of the welfare of the people and the prosperity of the nation. The Revolutionary war was for a national existence and identity the war of 1812 was for an equality among the nations of the earth, and the war of the rebellion demonstrated that judgment and not passion was the great ruling principle of the American people. He attacked Mr Burnett's [illegible] on the tariff question and [illegible] showing the fallacy of that position to prove that the Democratic party in its platform in 1868 occupied the same position as does the Republican party of Oregon to day, and that the members of Congress were now and always had been [illegible] in their votes upon the tariff question by the peculiar interests of the district which they represented. While the Republican Congressman from Illinois whose constituents were all farmers might oppose the protective tariff, the Pennsylvania Democrat whose constituents were all manufacturers most earnestly favored a high tariff. But it was the untenable and contradictory ground Mr Burnett attempted to occupy on the question of Government aid to internal improvements that Judge Wilson made the happiest and most telling point of the evening. In refutation of Mr Burnett's statement, in substance that the Democrats opposed any more grants by the Government in aid of railroads, Judge Wilson read from the State Democratic platform of 1862 where this same party called on Government for just such a grant as Mr Burnett now so earnestly denounced. Why this change of front. It was only chaff clap trap to gull people who did not think for themselves. And this change of base was not apparent only on the land grant question. Nearly every other principle the Democratic party enunciated two years ago was now ignored and many of them utterly discarded. Mr Wilson said he proposed to hold Mr Burnett to the position the latter took on the railroad question all through the canvass, and by so doing he expected that Eastern Oregon, which had an abundance of lands and could produce as much as any country in the world, but was without transportation or a market would rally to the support of the man who supported the interests of that section by using all efforts to secure such legislation as would insure the establishment of lines of transportation for the production of that vast domain which now lies an idle waste for the lack of just these things. We only wish that the voters of Eastern Oregon who desire a railroad and who have long labored for that enterprise, could have heard Mr Burnett's speech last night, for we are satisfied that every one of them who thinks would be convinced that were Mr Burnett and his party to succeed in getting into power the inhabitants of Eastern Oregon would listen in vain for the coming of the iron horse. Nor would the howling of the coyotes ever give place to the shriek of the locomotive.

Judge Wilson briefly reviewed the action of our last Oregon Legislature, and cited it as a sample of the way that party guarded the interests of the people. His arraignment of the Democracy of Oregon for their frauds and swindling operations was pointed, and elicited such applause from the audience as plainly indicated that the people felt the force and truth of his remarks. His speech was a complete refutation of his opponent's position, and clearly showed that the boast of the Democratic organs throughout the State, that "Joe Wilson would be no match for John Burnett," was untimely and is destined to be far from realized. Many points were made in Judge Wilson's speech which we have not time nor space to lay before our readers but having heard both the candidates we feel safe in saying that the "Benton of Benton" will have to spring a little further and gather a good deal quicker than he did last night, if he don't come out second best in the pending campaign.

SHORT WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Notwithstanding the fact that the daily papers of this city have more than once called attention to the fact that some of the retail dealers in various articles are in the habit of giving short weight and measure, I beg leave again to mention the matter, so that those grocers wood dealers, and others who are thus imposing on the public, may know that their dishonest acts are not passed by unnoticed. I can instance the following cases, coming under my own observation within the past few days. A man paid for a cord of wood, and got 109 cubic feet, instead of 128. Another paid for a bushel of potatoes, and got 53 pounds instead of 60. Another paid for 80 pounds of meat, and got 60 pounds only. That there are honorable exceptions to this practice of swindling and a large number of them in our city I have no doubt and would be very glad to see some steps taken to furnish security to the public at large, and protection to the actually honest dealers who suffer by the competition of those whose profits mainly consist in the amount of which they defraud the consumer by this system of short weights and measures.

On Wednesday [illegible] entertainment at the Unitarian Chapel [illegible] and military ball at Armory Hall by the Montgomery Guard. On Thursday [illegible] at the Skating Rink.

MRS WALDRON'S BENEFIT —As our readers have been informed this popular actress will take a complimentary benefit this evening at the Oro Fino Theater. This lady although she has not been long before the public of this city, can be classed among the special favorites of the theater goers. Ever quiet and affable always studious and painstaking, and never failing to please her audience. Mrs Waldron has won a warm place in the hearts of this public. Though young in her profession she bids fair to attain to an enviable degree of excellence. The programme [illegible] will be one of the best yet offered. [illegible] Petticoats and Paddifoot.

A HOME FOR THE LIBRARY.

The gentlemen whose names are appended to the following circular have been appointed a committee to secure a Home for the Library Association of Portland.

At a meeting of the committee [illegible] to publish the [illegible] the [illegible] referred to [illegible] the necessary [illegible] accomplish it.

[illegible] years [illegible] the As[illegible] no other purpose.

The committee propose to [illegible] for this purpose a yearly for [illegible] years 1872 and 1873 [illegible] $100 [illegible] any one [illegible] give.

The committee have selected twenty names from among the persons of wealth [illegible] whom it is thought are able and [illegible] willing to subscribe $[illegible] a piece and thus raise the amount required at once. But if they are disappointed in this respect they will apply for the smaller subscriptions. The terms of the subscription will be that the money is not to become due until the $[illegible] is raised. The Directors of [illegible] must be left to exercise their best judgment as to the mode of investing the fund subject only to the [illegible] that the capital sum is not to be used so as to be diminished, nor for any other purpose than the procuring of a home for the Library. At present it is thought feasible to buy a lot and lease it for a period of say twenty years the lessee to consider [illegible] the lease to build a brick house there and furnish the Association with the second story free of rent.

CIRCULAR

In February 1864 the Library Association of Portland was organized with a capital stock of 1 000 volumes. It has been in operation ever since, and now contains about 5,000 volumes. It has upwards of [illegible] paying members, at no [illegible] than $3 per quarter. Its assets consisting of cash on hand, furniture and books, are worth about $8,000.

The rooms now occupied by the Association were given to it by Mr William S. Ladd, on March 1, 1867, for a term of three years. This generous gift has enabled the Association to devote all its surplus revenues arising from current receipts to the purchase of books, periodicals etc. But now Mr Ladd's lease has expired, and he very naturally declines to continue it unless others, who are abundantly able shall contribute something to put the Association beyond need and dependence in the matter of rooms. He proposes to donate the rooms we now occupy for the further term of two years provided the sum of $2,000 the first year and $3 000 the second is given by others to the Association.

The undersigned Committee of the Directors has been appointed to consider the subject and devise ways and means to provide a permanent suite of rooms for the Association.

It has been demonstrated by the experience of the past three years that the Library can support itself and keep pace with the growth of the population of Portland and the vicinity from its current receipts, if room rent is otherwise provided for. It is hardly necessary to say that the institution is a marked credit and benefit to Portland. It is well calculated to give the place character abroad, and attract to it the attention of the better class of people who are seeking a home on this coast.

After due consultation and deliberation it appears to us that the men of wealth whose fortunes and business are more or less dependent on such influences as are created and promoted by the Library both at home and abroad should feel in a measure bound to foster it and help it on in the course of usefulness now so promisingly begun. The only sure way of doing this is to establish the Library in a home—a home worthy of its present patronage and capacious enough to meet the growing wants of a number of years hence.

As an evidence of the interest felt in the Library by one of our citizens, and of the recognition by him of the considerations above set forth the committee cite with pride Mr Ladd's liberality in giving the Association three years' rent of its present rooms, and proposing to add to this two more—a gift which can safely be estimated at fully $6,000.

A plan for accomplishing the desired object has been devised by the committee, which, by equitably dividing a moderate sum of money, in payments of one year apart, among a certain number of persons of ample means, will hardly fail to commend itself to their good judgment and inclinations.

The committee earnestly hope that this opportunity for doing a great permanent good for Portland—present and future—will not be unheeded by the gentlemen addressed.

The Dusseldorf Calamity

AN IRREPARABLE LOSS TO ART

The destruction of the Academy of Art at Dusseldorf which has been reported is a serious loss, but not so great as the language of the dispatch would lead one to suppose The famous gallery was founded in 1690 and into it were gradually gathered some of the finest specimens of Dutch and Flemish art But the Rhenish country was at the close of the last century, the theater of war and the old palace near which was the collection of pictures was nearly destroyed by the bombardment of the French in 1794 Accordingly in 1804 King Maximilian Joseph of Bavaria moved the entire collection of paintings to Munich under the pretext of insuring their safety The town has endeavored in vain to recover them and they form to this day the most valuable part of the collection of the old Pinakothek The only painting of any value left was one on wood not of the first order of excellence, and As[illegible] sion of the Virgin, by Rubens

Notwithstanding this removal, there was a large collection of original sketches and drawings, about fourteen hundred in number left These were by a great number of artists—Raphael Michael Angelo Titian Giulio Romano and others About thirty years ago the gallery received an addition of 248 water color copies of Italian masters by Rambourg, affording a very good survey of Italian art from the fourteenth to the sixteenth century The numerous paintings that have taken place of those removed are of comparatively small value and doubtless it is to the original sketches or the water color copies of paintings that our dispatches referred

Dusseldorf was the cradle of Rhenish art and greater activity in art has been displayed there during the last half century than in any other German town The school was founded by Cornelius, a native of the town in 1838 [illegible] was conducted first by Schadow and more lately by Bendemann Historical painting has been especially cultivated at this school The studios of the younger artists were in one of the wings of the rebuilt electoral palace, which building, situated near the Academy of Arts, is not stated to have shared the fate of the gallery

Sumner's Opposition to the Administration. The staid old Boston Advertiser, a representative paper of the best class, says that the charges of Senator Sumner against the Administration are "grounded on a sick man's [illegible]." And the Albany Journal, in summing up "the case," says

And now, at the conclusion of the second scene of the campaign, in [illegible] the mighty effort by the small result, it is not so much a [illegible] of the Senate, as a demonstration of the utter emptiness of their material and the utter [illegible] of their support, to say that their [illegible] has been entirely impotent. They have made no impression upon the country. The estimation in which it holds Gen. Grant is unchanged Popular conventions have been held in the very midst of this crusade, and have been as hearty and enthusiastic in their expressions as ever Nearly a dozen States have spoken through representative bodies, and not one has reflected any opposition to the President No where is there any evidence of a diminution of the public confidence and regard There is the fact, explain it as we may—whether by saying that the opposing Senators have themselves forfeited the confidence of the country or by saying that their motives are so transparent and their criticisms so flimsy as to be destitute of all force Three months of bitter and tenacious assault have passed without injuring the President, without weakening the sentiment of his renomination, without shaking the esteem in which he is held by the great mass of sober thinking, reasoning men

Fisk's First Composition —Colonel Fisk's first composition is given in a recent work, from which we quote

One of his copy books, used when he was about twelve years old, is still preserved by his step-mother at her home in Brattleboro, and to say that it is a literary curiosity is too meager justice to one of the most original of all the written results of school boy labor ever examined by the critic Hardly a page but shows the antipathy of the boy to everything like set forms and hardly a line but bears evidence of his natural contempt for uniformity. The little book contains three or four compositions, one of which entitled A Piece about the Dog," is as unique as anything ever penned by Artemus Ward The young writer says in his "piece" (which had evidently originally been written peace")

"A dog is an animel with four legs because he is a quadrooped I like large dogs best because they can run farther and fight better than little dogs and they can also catch rabits A big dog aint worth much without he got good breed into him Then I drather hev a little one They can also drag sleds some has been learned to cary sticks and baskets and seterer The bulldog is the best fighting dog because most likely he was made for that purpus A terrier goes mostly for rats but they can also fight I think the newfoundland is the noblest dog he saves children from drowning, and they are sagasious This is all for the present

The following funny story is from Wisconsin A near sighted school teacher in the town of Center took a lady from Porter also near sighted to a church on a recent Sunday evening He drove a blind horse The eyeless equine couldn't keep the road and the close visioned couple knew not whither to guide the beast After numerous mishaps they reached the scene of worship with one of the tires missing and the buggy box badly bruised and drove triumphantly into the yard which surrounded the church In it unfortunately a clothes line was stretched across the lot, and under this the misguided brute took his course There was a sudden emptying of the buggy in a back summersaultic manner which would have done credit to a first-class circus tumbler and Center and Porter were heaped up promiscuously in the mud behind the vehicle They didn't go into the church, but returned home as solemn as a funeral procession with the Porter lady in the buggy and the Center delegate leading the blind horse It was a gloomy cheerless trip, and the school teacher vowed as he trudged along with the bridle rein over his shoulder, that he would never be caught out again without his spectacles

There is a man travelling about Pennsylvania who has solved the problem of cheap and easy living He says he is 41 years of age and has never done a day's work of any kind He has traveled over the greater part of Europe and America, begging his way and boasts of a more varied knowledge of station houses jails and other inexpensive lodgings than any other man alive

SOCIETY NOTES

A new style of necklace is made of Dead Sea shells and pebbles

Many gentlemen for full dress wear patent leather boots with the Louis Quinze heels

Black silk [illegible] embroidered [illegible] colored silk floss are among the spring novelties

[illegible] trimmed with lace [illegible]

[illegible]

It again becoming the fashion for ladies to wear their fans suspended by a gold chain from the wrist

A new waltz composed by Mr Harry Sanderson [illegible] is becoming very popular in Fifth avenue parlors

[illegible] extravagant young ladies pay thirty [illegible] forty dollars for the making up of a [illegible] calico

The newest style of necklaces are of black [illegible] interspersed with small knots of colored [illegible] chine

Crests have entirely superceded monograms No family should be without one the children cry for them

It is said if a wife wishes to make her home attractive to her husband she has only to keep a sharp eye on the [illegible]

Young ladies now wear small mirrors in their lockets thus carrying with them the reflection of the face they love best

Prospective brides should never announce that they will not exhibit their presents It has a bad effect on some people's generosity

The Dolly Varden bonnets are said to be the prettiest and most becoming head gear that has been worn by women [illegible] centuries

Young ladies have got into the fashion of not signing their notes to gentlemen which is a very modest fashion and not at all confusing for the recipient Oh, no

The latest fashionable ornaments are of amber and will in a few months completely supersede the tortoise shell jewelry which has held its own for an unusually long time

There is a clergyman in Quincy, Ill Rev Sydney Corbett by name whose salary has been reduced $1 000 at his own request This looks to us like a clear case of justifiable insanity

A new style of watch is in the shape of a beetle thickly incrusted with precious stones One side of the wing opens with a spring and discloses a watch dial and the other side has a small place for a miniature

It is said people owe their long lives to their flannels and it is a known fact that external preservation from damp prolongs life and that even in the hottest day of summer flannel garments should not be discarded

The meanest man in St Louis lately packed his wife off on a railroad train going south on the pretense of accompanying her and then jumped off and fled to parts unknown because the partner of his joys and sorrows had lost her comeliness by small pox

As the market for Cured Meats on this coast is now largely regulated by the market at Chicago the following statement from the circular of Milward & Co of Chicago will be of interest here

Our stock of Cut Meats is light—far lighter than last year—notwithstanding the large increase in the packing and also though our receipts from the country points sum up some 1[illegible] 000 000 lbs against 4 000 000 lbs to the same time last year As far can be ascertained all the country points adopted the Chicago policy and sent on their products as fast as ready Everywhere around this section of country stocks are reported light Prices of provision products have been so low since the season opened—being from 60 to 75 ℔ cent less than those of the previous year—that consumption has been largely induced Last year prices ranged from $15 to $23 for Mess Pork and 9@10¾c for short middles until the middle of summer and yet all the crop was consumed Now with the former product at $11@12 and the latter at 5¾@6c with prosperity reigning at the South (always our largest consumers and with the certainty that the German Empire and the French Republic have been so despoiled of provisions by the war and of the ability to furnish them that both will have to depend on the United States to supply their necessities the probability that all the stocks will be speedily exhausted, and as present prices of products would not allow 3 cents gross for hogs the farmers cannot afford to feed so the prospect for replenishment is not very promising England has also calculated on a large increase in home supplies which now appears to be probably mythical and the home-cured meat after experiencing a serious decline, is now an advancing tendency The consumption of American meat there has been largely increased in consequence of the low prices current. The exports from the United States for the last three and a half months exceeded those of the whole of last year Milwaukee reports her stock as smaller than at the same time for the last two years indeed, the advices from most country points are to the same effect The shipments from our market to California and the Pacific coast have been very heavy and are constantly increasing Advices from Canada state that the Hog crop there has fallen off 50 ℔ cent in number and 50 lbs ℔ hog in weight so our trade with that section will probably be very large the coming summer

Washington correspondence (March 29th) of the San Francisco Bulletin gives the following particulars in regard to legislation on internal revenue and Customs

The feature of the week in Congress has been the passage by the Senate of a bill reducing direct and indirect taxation to the [illegible] amount of some $55 000 000 per annum. The bill as it came from the house provided simply for the repeal of the duty on salt It goes back to the House wholly divested of this provision being in its present shape substantially the tariff bill reported as a substitute by the Senate Finance Committee, together with a provision for the repeal, from and after the first day of next July of the tax on gas and all taxes payable by stamps, excepting such as relate to distilled spirits fermented liquors and tobacco in its various forms and also a provision for the immediate repeal of the tax on incomes The amount of the internal taxes surrendered by the bill is between twenty five and twenty six million dollars and the reductions in the tariff will have the effect of remitting nearly thirty millions of the present revenue from Customs duties

The principal item for the reduction of customs duties is the provision for free teas and coffee amounting to $16 600 000 per annum The second section makes a reduction of 10 per cent on the present duties on wool [illegible] cottons India rubbers leathers earthen ware and glass and all iron and steel manufactures thereof excepting pig iron and steel rails Manufactures of silk now subject to a duty of 60 per cent were included by the Finance Committee in the schedule for a reduction of 10 per cent but were stricken out by the Senate so the present protective duty on silk is retained The first section fixes a duty on salt in bulk of 9 cents per 100 lbs salt in packages 12 cents pig lead 1¾ cents sheet lead 2[illegible] cents molten lead, 1¾ cents bituminous coal 50 cents per bushel except slack [illegible] and [illegible] reduced duties on lumber and various other articles

This is the Senate's work The House may very materially change some or many parts of it.
